

Districting May Wait Until After State's Elections

Wingert Plans Hearing on Inequities in Voting Rights

MADISON (AP)—Odds mount today against reapportionment of Wisconsin's political districts in time for the 1962 elections despite an unprecedented federal court intervention.

Federal court master Emmert L. Wingert announced Thursday he would conduct a formal hearing on the fundamental question of whether the state's present apportionment denies Wisconsin voters their constitutional rights.

In setting the first hearing for Tuesday, Wingert laid to rest any idea that he would move swiftly to begin redrawing legislative and congressional district lines.

He said there would be no attempt to reshape the state's political districts unless it is found that existing apportionment is so inequitable it violates the federal Constitution and demands change.

Nomination Deadline

The Tuesday hearing date underscores the critical time factor. Tuesday is also the deadline for candidates in the Sept. 11 primary to file nomination papers.

Wingert said the deadline is the concern of the candidates that he presumed they would go ahead and file. But he also said that if it was determined citizens' rights are being violated by inequalities in existing districts they should be given a remedy "if it is practically possible."

"On the other hand, we can't work miracles," he said.

Wingert's statements came at the conclusion of a pre-trial conference between parties to the suit Democratic Atty. Gen. John Reynolds and an assistant, Roy Rulane, were present representing the plaintiffs in the federal suit to force reapportionment.

Reynolds Urges Speed

Reynolds also stressed the time element and said he was hopeful any court order would be effective in time for the 1962 balloting. "We are in court to solve the problems of today," he said, "not those of 1972 or sometime in the future."

If the federal court decides that present apportionment does not violate the federal Constitution, Reynolds said he would take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court. "When you begin a suit such as this," the attorney general said, "you do so with the intention of

Author Dies of Heart Disease

William Faulkner Won Nobel Prize for Literature in 1950

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Nobel prize winning author William Faulkner, who made the fictional Mississippi county of Yoknapatawpha known throughout the world, died today.

The 64-year-old author died of a heart attack at a hospital in Oxford.

Faulkner returned here some weeks ago from the University of Virginia where he had spent much of his recent years as a lecturer in American literature.

His wife, Estelle, and his sister, Dorothy Oldham, were with him when he died.

Faulkner's daughter, Mrs. Paul D. Summers Jr. of Charlottesville, Va., was flying here for the funeral scheduled Saturday.

Faulkner's mother died last year.

Relatives said Faulkner died about 2 a.m. today, shortly after being admitted to a hospital.

The gentle, small-statured Faulkner won the Nobel literary prize in 1950.

His sister, Mrs. Dorothy Oldham, was with him when he died.

Faulkner's daughter, Mrs. Paul D. Summers Jr. of Charlottesville, Va., was reported flying here by private plane for the funeral services scheduled Saturday.

The superlative storyteller always considered himself a professional farmer rather than a writer.

H-Bomb Device Exploded in Nevada Desert

CAMP MERCURY, Nev. (AP)—A mighty underground blast—most powerful set off in the United States and the first announced use here of an H-bomb type device—shattered the desert calm today.

It was expected to kick up a towering column of dirt and dust leaving a crater a third of a mile wide and 300 feet deep but as the test site was closed to unofficial observers there was no immediate word of how it appeared.

The H-bomb device packed the equivalent of 100,000 tons of TNT.

The previous most powerful shot here was 74.3 kilotons fired from a balloon in 1957. Today's shot was fired 650 feet below the surface of nearby Yucca Flat at the Nevada nuclear test site 65 miles north of Las Vegas.

The purpose was to explore the possibilities of nuclear energy for peaceful purposes such as dams and irrigation. All previous tests here have been for weapons development.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says he is giving very of political union between the serious consideration to urgings United States and Europe?

It depends on how you define immediate income tax cut. And Kennedy said, North Atlantic allies already have political commitments to each other, he said, and these may take on "a more intimate form."

Submits New Health Plan

Kentucky Senator Holds Little Hope It Will Be Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., has offered a proposal as a substitute for the Kennedy administration's health care for the aged plan which includes Social Security tax financing.

Under Morton's proposal, the program would be financed from general revenues of the Treasury and would provide federal payments for private health insurance premiums for persons over 65.

Morton said he expected his alternative to be disposed of without a record vote, a pretty clear indication he did not hold high hopes for it.

The Senate actually got around Thursday to debating the administration proposal for the first time.

Estimated Cost

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., put it before his colleagues as an amendment to a pending House-passed bill revising the public welfare laws.

Morton estimated the annual federal cost of his proposed program might be $1.2 billion.

The payments would be $125 in annual premiums for those who owe no federal income tax in a year, a graduated scale from $125 to $25 for those with tax liability up to $400, and $25 for those owing $400 or more in taxes.

States desiring to participate would negotiate contracts with insurance companies under which persons over 65 would be offered a choice of short-term illness coverage or long-term or catastrophic illness coverage.

States would pay all administrative costs.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., one of five Republicans cosponsoring the Anderson proposal, said negotiations still are under way on the option feature of the plan.

This would permit a beneficiary to elect to take his health care payments through a private insurance company.

Panic in European Sector Amid New Violence in Oran

Curfew Invoked in Effort To Prevent Added Killings

ALGIERS (AP)—Shooting broke out again in Oran today and panic swept the European section. Authorities promptly clamped on a curfew to prevent a renewal of Thursday's Moslem-European bloodbath which cast a pall in independence festivities of this infant nation.

A new estimate placed the toll in Thursday's conflict at more than 100 dead.

There were no immediate reports of casualties in today's shooting.

Europeans Take Cover

Europeans ran for cover from shouting Moslems apparently pursuing a man they described as a Secret Army Organization terrorist. There was no reply to the Moslem gunfire and it died down quickly.

The tense situation in Oran overshadowed for the moment political efforts to heal a breach between rival Moslem factions contending for the leadership of the nation. Algeria's delegate to the Arab League was flying in from Cairo for a mediation attempt.

The Nationalist information minister, Mohammed Yazid, blamed Thursday's violent battle in Oran, former stronghold of the secret army, on diarch "Fascists" who refused to go along with the abandonment of the terrorist struggle against Moslem rule.

Details Lacking

There was no clear explanation in Oran on how the shooting started. In Paris, sources said they received reports from Oran that the fight began when a group of Moslems went to the roof of a European apartment building to hoist an Algerian flag. Europeans living in the building resented it and a

Japanese Cool Toward Kennedy's Proposal For U. S. Investments

TOKYO (AP)—Industrialists and government officials today greeted with pessimism the Kennedy administration proposal that Japanese industries invest in factories in the United States.

The consensus appeared to be that would be gained by moving into a high-wage labor market when we have comparatively low wages here at home.

"We could not compete with American industry because of their highly advanced situation," declared Toshiya Hiramatsu, an executive of the huge Mitsui Petrochemicals Industries, Ltd. "We would rather stress increasing exports than build factories in the States."

Army troops already had been alerted for trouble during the general strike, which virtually shut down Rio. No planes, buses, trains or ferries moved. Most industries, banks, offices and shops were shut tight.

Tanks, Troops Used to Quell Brazilian Riots

Mobs Loot Over 100 Stores as They Shout Demands for Food

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Tanks and troops enforced calm on nearby Duque de Caxias today after frenzied mobs shouting "we want food" plundered more than 100 stores in a running fight with police and shopkeepers.

Mayor Adolfo Daci said 15 persons were killed and more than 100 injured before units of the 1st army quelled the rioting and sacking in that city of some 80,000 about 10 miles northwest of Rio.

Two other persons were reported killed in similar but less violent food riots in the Rio suburbs of Sao Joao do Meriti and Nova Iguaçu.

Riots During Strike

The riots erupted during a general strike called by union leaders demanding the formation of a popular nationalist government to settle the governmental stalemate between leftist President Joao Goulart and the conservative-dominated Parliament.

After conferring with Goulart, the union leaders called a halt to the strike last night. But union chiefs in Goulart's home state of Rio Grande do Sul rejected a plea from Gov. Leonel Brizola, Goulart's brother-in-law, and declared a new work stoppage today.

The food riots stemmed from the government's attempt to control prices on such staples as beans, flour, rice, sugar and salt in the face of the nation's spiraling inflation. Store owners have been withholding their ample supplies of these items in hopes of getting higher prices later.

Supplies Dwindle

Long lines of housewives have formed in front of Rio stores this week as food supplies dwindled. Early this week 20 persons were injured in a food riot in the suburb of Niteroi.

Army troops already had been alerted for trouble during the general strike, which virtually shut down Rio. No planes, buses, trains or ferries moved. Most industries, banks, offices and shops were shut tight.

Holiday Traffic Toll Grows to Record 146

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic accidents claimed a record 146 deaths during the 30-hour Independence Day holiday period. The previous record for a one-day Fourth of July since World War II was 137 in 1956.

The over-all accident toll in the period from 6 p.m. Tuesday and midnight, Wednesday, was 255. In addition to traffic deaths, 16 persons died in boating accidents, 55 persons drowned and 38 persons were killed in miscellaneous accidents.

Government Offer to Arbitrate Rejected by Railroad Union Heads

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The heads of five railroad unions rejected today a government offer to arbitrate the deadlocked dispute over the number of men to operate the nation's trains.

The head of the five unions, representing some 200,000 on-train employees, sent a letter to the National Mediation Board saying the unions did not think all areas had been fully explored in negotiations in Chicago two weeks ago, and said the board's offer of arbitration was premature.

The railroads have demanded changes to eliminate alleged featherbedding by eliminating jobs they say are not necessary.

President Kennedy could delay a walkout by another 60 days by naming an emergency board to recommend a settlement.

U. S. Claims $3,395,665

Liens on File Against Jailed Bookmaker

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP)—Tax liens totaling $3,395,665 were filed today by the federal government against bookmaker Joseph Morarty.

Chris L. Gross, district director of the Internal Revenue Service said at Newark the liens were filed in Hudson and Essex counties.

Gross said the total figure covers a six-year period and includes income taxes, fraud penalties and interest.

Bonds Also Found

Morarty, serving a 2 to 3 year sentence in State Prison at Trenton, has been tabbed by Jersey City police as the owner of a $24 million hoard found in an abandoned car Tuesday.

Together with the money, police found bonds in the names of Morarty and his brother, who died five years ago.

Morarty has neither affirmed nor denied ownership of the fortune in currency ranging from $5 to $1,000 bills. He has a long record of arrests as a numbers lottery operator.

Morarty's income for each year from 1956 through 1961 was estimated at $400,000 annually by the Internal Revenue Service. He paid only a nominal amount each year.

The tax liens were announced after the Justice Department indicated it would claim the $24 million cache.

Morarty refused Thursday to discuss ownership of the treasure with an FBI agent, and authorities said his girl friend, red-haired Anna Patrick, also was silent.

Beachhead Invasion Demonstrates Terrible Precision of Modern Navy

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

PENDLETON BEACHHEAD, Va. — At this moment and during those many more which will follow it, a number of unique U. S. military task forces are roving the oceans of the world and are bristlingly ready for the worst war in history if it should come.

These are the unsung amphibious forces, strangely but tightly organized units melded into a military conglomerate which can be terrible war. Mix together jet fighters and tractors and heavy bombers and helicopters and landing craft and cargo ships and 17,000 Marines and Navy men and some 60 kinds of ships — and you have one of the amphibious forces which now prowls the world's oceans for any eventuality.

Geared to meet the demands of global tensions, of brushfire war, or an all-out general war, the amphibious forces are fast-moving precision instruments of battle. It is trained and equipped to project U. S. sea power over the beachheads of potential enemies, or in response to the needs of free world partners.

Today, such a force "invaded" the sandy shores of Pendleton Beach. As in a troubled nightmare, I saw what appeared to be a modern version of the invasion of Normandy long ago. This time, though, the mock attack was quicker, more deadly than the one I remember. Supersonic jets—then unknown—screamed through the skies overhead today to soften simulated resistance. It included inland strikes by helicopter-borne troops, and it heli-dropped Navy frogmen into the sea to set demolition charges.

This was a new version of Normandy, one employing what the amphibious forces term "vertical envelopment."

Bombers smashed "resistance" and a simulated atomic bomb thundered under a parachute cloud before 2,000 assault troops struck the beach, running and screaming, with bayonets fixed. Then came the big machinery, the tractors, the trucks, the tanks and the new mechanical devices of war.

The arts of invasion have changed. Today's assault is a far cry from the one, more than 3,000 years ago when an Egyptian king set off the first sea-to-shore assault in recorded history.

Today's "attack" was a cultured version of the sea-borne assault of the Greeks upon Troy, and of Hannibal's crossing to strike at Spain.

It is different, too, from the rudimentary techniques and primitive equipment of World War II placed the old M-1. It's light weight, 18.7 pounds, is air-cooled, gas-operated and can be fired automatically at the rate of 750 rounds per minute. The M-40 machine gun is an automatic weapon which can be fired at the rate of 550 rounds per minute while the gunner is walking and is effective at more than a thousand yards.

when invasions were slanted at Sicily, Salerno, Anzio, Normandy and southern France. Soldiers and Marines of World War II would not recognize the new, specialized amphibious ships and weapons of today. Normandy technique is "old hat." The LST is bigger and tougher and faster and carry up-to-the mark equipment. A new attack transport ship is capable of airlifting an entire battalion landing team to any objective.

One odd craft I visited was the USS Fort Mandan, a 457-foot-long landing ship dock which can fight with its two 44 millimeter guns, and can launch and recover helicopters as well as serve as a quaint, floating harbor for amphibious vehicles and landing craft. Big doors swung open at its stern and wounded water-land craft can enter its well deck for safety and repairs. In that ample bosom, it can hold three 110-foot boats and, topside, it can carry vehicles, trucks, tanks and a total of eight helicopters. Also, it can act as a primary control vessel during an assault at shore.

Aboard was Lt. Daniel E. Elandt, 26, of Kaukauna, with four years in the Navy behind him and many more ahead.

"Our ship is a proud one with a proud record," he said.

If amphibious attack groups are old in time, they are now new in technique and the Navy and Marine Corps is pouring great energy into its training and development. Until last year, for example, there was no specialized training for amphibious warfare, but this year 10,000 trainees are in the amphibious training command undergoing the tough, demanding courses required of them.

NATO countries, including the British, French, Greek and Turkish also are training such assault groups, some in concert with U.S. forces.

The men of the amphibious arms of sea power proudly call themselves "gators" and they are a new breed of fighters—different from those who assaulted England under Julius Caesar; and different, too, from the troops which invaded France in World War II, and the weapons are more fearful and destructive.

These ship-to-shore movements are faster, and air and naval gunfire support is more intensely accurate. Logistic phases are streamlined and "vertical envelopment" from the air has put new wings on striking forces.

The speed of Gator forces has been illustrated in recent years with the quick occupation of Lebanon in 1958 which was completed in only 15 hours after the order was issued to stabilize a threatening situation.

Proposal for Tax Cut Given Strong Backing

Many Governors Think Slash Would Help Campaigns

BY PETER LISAGOR
Chicago Daily News Service

HERSHEY, Pa. — To many the State Department's career diplomats, facing a re-election men, the Foreign Service officers campaign this fall, a tax cut now would be manna from Washington, which is the equivalent of heaven in statehouse parlance.

"I don't know of anybody against it," said Ohio's Michael V. DiSalle, a Democrat in trouble.

"It would be a good thing this year," said California's Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, a Democrat in an admittedly tough scrap against former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"If it's going to be done, now's a good time to do it," said New York's Nelson A. Rockefeller, a Republican worried mainly about the possible margin of his victory in November.

Only Rockefeller is equivocal. He thinks there is merit in a tax cut, although he prefers a faster depreciation write-off on new plants and equipment as the "basic element" needed now.

More State Taxes

Stimulating the economy is one reason, however, for support at the 54th annual governors' conference for a personal and corporate income tax cut, which the Kennedy administration has promised for next year.

Another, and perhaps more important, reason is the fiscal pressure weighing heavily upon the governors. DiSalle is candid enough to admit that Ohioans might be a bit more amenable to having the state pick up additional taxes if Washington relaxes its bite somewhat.

DiSalle noted that the State of Ohio gets only six cents of every tax dollar and that most other states are in a relatively similar situation.

Colorado's Gov. Stephen McNichols said governors and state legislatures must face up to "a highly unpopular approach" of

Shoulder-Fired

The XM-79 is a shoulder-fired weapon which is chambered for a 40 millimeter cartridge which can be thrown beyond the reach of hand-thrown grenades. It weighs only 6.5 pounds.

A 3.5 inch rocket launcher now in use is a development of the WW II Bazooka. It fires a 13-pound projectile which can penetrate up to 11 inches of steel at 900 yards. The launcher weighs only nine pounds.

A light-weight tank killer is the ONTOS ("the thing") which carries six 106 millimeter rifles capable of a maximum range of about 8,000 meters.

There's a mechanical rule, too, to be employed by a single fighting man and it can tote abroad it guns too large for a lone man to carry.

The Honest John rocket is pre aimed and follows a trajectory determined in advance of firing. It travels faster than the speed of sound and can deliver nuclear or conventional demolitions to targets more than 12 miles away.

I saw these weapons during the mock invasion of this Pendleton Beachhead — and so did a number of foreign military guests from Belgium, Chile, Norway, Indonesia, Canada, Japan, Greece, Yugoslavia, Finland, Turkey, Korea, Switzerland and other places, including the U.S.S.R.

'Awfully Hot in the Kitchen'

Diplomats Assured by Kennedy in 'Pep Talk'

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — If you tell Dulles let McCarthy get away with it.

Kennedy said, you'd better get out of the kitchen. He said he himself thinks the kitchen is the best place to be.

He was giving a pep talk to the State Department's career diplomats, protesting in a letter to the New York Times, said Foreign Service officers who made honest and conscientious reports might find their integrity and loyalty challenged.

Dominant Force

Fear—where congressional critics are concerned—would still seem to be a dominant force in the State Department which last year published a 430-page history of the diplomatic service and its troubles.

It never mentioned its troubles with McCarthy.

But times have changed and Kennedy—unlike Dulles who acted like a one-man State Department—appealed to the career men to offer new ideas and recommendations in foreign policy.

Publicized Remark

Kennedy talked to them last May. But it wasn't until this week that the White House made his remarks public.

Historians, at least, seem much happier with our present diplomatic representatives overseas than with those who went abroad in the 19th Century, particularly the early part of it.

Norman A. Graebner, who in 1961 edited a collection of studies on secretaries of state in a book called "An Uncertain Tradition," looked back mournfully at the early diplomats and said:

"Many lacked knowledge, some lacked dignity, although few were as tactless as John Randolph who allegedly commented when presented to the czar in 1830: 'How's the Madam?'"

"How's the Madam?"

This was the same nimble-tongued Randolph who was credited with saying of Edward Livingston, one of President Jackson's secretaries of state: "He is a man of splendid abilities but utterly corrupt. He shines and stinks like a rotten mackerel by moonlight."

About the best job most career officers can hope for is that of ambassador somewhere. Kennedy told them they're doing pretty well in this field but that a president still has to pick the best man for a given spot.

That was why, he explained, he had to go out into private life to find ambassadors for some countries.

Doctors in Saskatchewan

The strike by the doctors of Saskatchewan as a means of protesting against the government's adoption of a socialized medical program is a grave error. Regard less of the attitude any person may take with respect to the government's medical program, a strike is not justified by any standards.

It is undoubtedly true that the doctors are acting in what they believed to be the best interests of medicine in Saskatchewan. There can be no doubt that the doctors believe any action they take to defeat this medical program to bring about its revision will, in the long run, rebound to the benefit of all concerned. Nevertheless, the strike is damaging not the government of Saskatchewan but the people of Saskatchewan, many of whom are children with no voice in government.

The doctors were well aware of the dangers of such a strike and they took the precaution of setting up emergency hospital services which they hoped would meet all of the people's needs. About 240 of the province's 900 doctors remained on emergency duty at 34 of the 121 hospitals in the province. But in some instances these hospitals were several hundred miles apart. Quite obviously the service was inadequate when a young boy died while being rushed to a hospital nearly 90 miles from his home. It is true that the 9-month-old child, suffering from meningitis, might have died even though he had medical care but the striking doctors are in no position to prove that nor does it help their case that the father of the child blames the government rather than the doctors.

Strikes against the government cannot be permitted anywhere. In the armed forces it is a crime which calls for severe punishment, even death in some cases. In police forces and among fire fighters the right to strike cannot be tolerated by any civilized community. A strike has been tolerated in some instances where it involved garbage collectors but even here a strike has been recognized as a threat to the health of the community and few people would grant anyone the right to strike against the government and against the people.

The doctors have responsibilities to their patients and to the communities they serve which certainly are no less than those of policemen or firemen and most people believe they are much greater. All citizens have the right to protest what they believe are unjust laws and all citizens, including doctors, have the right to seek legislation which they believe right and just but even those most sympathetic to their cause cannot support them in a strike.

Mr. Gronouski's Two Hats

For the first time within memory, a Wisconsin state tax commissioner is playing a simultaneous role as an active partisan politician. John Gronouski, chosen by Gov. Nelson three years ago to run what is perhaps the most sensitive agency in the state government, has repeatedly turned up on the campaign stump during that time and currently is doing his best to attach his name and the prestige of his high office to one side of the argument about Wisconsin tax policy.

When Mr. Gronouski came to Wisconsin from Michigan to take his job, he was described as an expert in tax administration. No one has especially challenged his claims to expertness in collecting the taxes that elected public officials have decided, through statutory enactment, are required for the public welfare.

But we would guess that there are many persons who are becoming uneasy about the political posture of this tax collector, and especially since he insists upon taking a position that is contrary to the views of many other "experts" whose academic qualifications are the equal of his.

During the first months in his job, the tax commissioner served as a consultant to a study commission that was named by the governor to work out tax revision that would be equitable, productive, and conducive to economic growth.

Mr. Gronouski then functioned as he was invited to function—as the assembler of relevant factual matter, as the head of the research staff, as a kind of administrative collaborator. The record does not show that he ever undertook to challenge his co-workers in such contemptuous terms as he used on the floor of the Democratic state convention recently when he ridiculed an opponent's position as "sheer nonsense."

What was "sheer nonsense," as he called it? The argument of James Doyle, a member of that study commission who was defending the commission report which recommended a balanced program of income and sales taxation to finance expanding state and local budgets and to provide stabilization, at the least, for the perilously strained local property tax system.

Mr. Gronouski wants continued reliance upon income taxation, even if that means far heavier burdens on the lower income group, and such prohibitive rates on others that, as the study commission said, it will depress the Wisconsin economy in its competition with other states. Mr. Gronouski may be an expert in managing a tax collecting machine. But it requires no expertness to know that two and two provide a sum of four, as Mr. Doyle pointed out, and that the Gronouski alternative will inevitably provide a lower and middle rate of income taxation that will be far more burdensome than any sales tax yet suggested seriously.

Why Not Utopia and Erehwon?

Innumerable problems beset mankind. There is too much food in the United States and children starve around the world. Communism throws up walls and capitalism argues about medical aid. There are strikes and riots here, murders and massacres there. And into all this confusion another element, sure to confound headline writers, has been tossed.

The twin Belgian colonies of Ruanda-

Urundi became independent nations last Sunday. Both are on shaky economic ground and the verge of internal tribal warfare.

But even more confusing Ruanda, became the Republic of Rwanda while Urundi became the Kingdom of Burundi. There are supposed to be some 180,000 families in the area surplus to the needed labor force. But those extra and chained letters on the names are even more surplus.

Quite a Guy

Winston Churchill, undoubtedly one of the greatest men of the century, still can catch the eye and the heart of the world. This time he broke his hip getting out of bed. The concern for his condition was reflected in the free world's press.

There is something undefinable about the attraction of some people like Churchill. It is not merely that he came back from disgrace and virtual banishment to take over the government of England at its darkest hour. It is not merely that he was overwhelmingly triumphant. It is not merely his gift of phraseology that borders on the genius.

Churchill has the courage, the humor, the independence, the warmth, the sense of timing that has endeared him to people on almost every continent. Who else could make the V for victory sign today without being thought corny? Who else could demand and get his glass of Napoleon brandy shortly after an operation?

We're rather proud of the fact that his mother was an American.

Newspapers Should Print Good, Bad News

From The Wall Street Journal
In recent weeks a number of readers have taken issue with the printing of news about the economy and on allegedly striking companies still more.

The point is, simply put, we guess it is understandable that some people are getting a little bit worried about the future of the economy. Better Government Association Has Questions for Mr. Wyngaard

Editor, Post-Crescent:
Mr. John Wyngaard,
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Dear Mr. Wyngaard,

In a recent column, you had some very nice things to say about the lobbyist activities of the County Boards association, Town Boards association and League of Wisconsin Municipalities.

We are aware that the secretaries of these groups are "lobbyists" in every sense and connotation of the term. We are also aware that you have known and have had close contact with these individuals for years.

This letter seeks in no way to detract from these individuals as personalities. They may well be your very good friends—and probably are good and upright men. We do have a question or two to ask you regarding their functions and the functions of their respective groups.

Our government at all levels is a democracy by elected representatives. Each citizen of this state, of voting age, has a right to cast a vote to elect a state senator and a member of the assembly. The successful candidates for these offices then represent their constituents in the state legislature for a 2 year term.

1. Do you feel that the above representation is not sufficient?

form? Or should we put on a mantle of unlimited arrogance and presume to tell the people only what we think is good for them?

The question is self-answering, and in our opinion it also answers the question of a newspaper's "responsibility," about which so much is heard.

In this country a newspaper is a private enterprise whose business is news. It is not set up to conform to anyone's preconceived ideas of the nation's "economic good" or some broader "national interest." The moment it gets such highfalutin notions it ceases to be a newspaper and becomes an appendage of Government or some other special interest.

In performing its true function, a newspaper does of course serve a real national interest — if it is agreed, that is, that the best informed public is the best guarantee of making sensible economic and political decisions.

This newspaper, at any rate, does not print news because it is good, bad or indifferent, but because it is news. We don't know how else to run a newspaper, because any other way is to try to censor the news and thus defeat the purpose of a newspaper.

GOP Regulars Fear Cross-Over Voters

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Now comes the prospect for a largely untested Democratic primary election to worry some Republicans and make others hopeful.

The fact that the Democrats are having trouble recruiting candidates for state and other tickets probably is a sign that they don't regard their outlook as especially promising this year. But to Republicans it is a warning that thousands of non-Republicans will be tempted to come into the Republican primary to vote against Republican regulars in September.

The habit of the Wisconsin Democrat, and the liberal in general, to vote where the fight appears to be is a long standing one. It cannot be shown at a glance in the election returns, but it can be surmised easily enough when the total primary vote of the parties is compared with their true strength as shown in the final balloting in November. It is even more clearly shown by the ballooning of the Republican vote in what are known to be heavily Democratic districts.

THE PROBLEM

Some Republicans are even now speculating that the most important problem of Philip Kuehn, the convention endorsed candidate of the GOP regulars for the governorship, is to win the nomination in September.

Turning back Wilbur Renk, his nomination rival, may be as difficult and perhaps more difficult than defeating the Democratic candidate, John Reynolds, in November, in this view.

The reason is, as Renk has publicly acknowledged, that Democrats have nothing to lose if they ignore the Reynolds opposed candidacy in the primary and enter the Republican party for a day to vote for the Republican candidate they prefer over the standard bearer of the Republican regulars.

Many persons have been confused by the Wisconsin completely open primary, and especially those who have had some experience with the somewhat more cautious systems of other states.

Many partisans have wondered about and resented a system that permits and virtually invites members of one party to enter the nomination process of the other.

The process goes back more than half a century, to the electoral reforms of the elder LaFollette who fought the nomination procedures of the Stalwart Republicans of that day. His advocacy of the primary election method was the means of defeating the control of the Republican party of that time by his enemies. The "open" primary was not quite open during the long years of LaFollette rule. They selected states, and the people ratified them in primaries.

CHANGES

Abolition of the primary election probably will never be supported in Wisconsin, because the alternative of exclusive convention or caucus selection has an anti-democratic connotation.

Many thoughtful politicians have felt, however, that moderate restrictions upon the process might be advisable. Some states, for example, have the party registration requirement, which means that a man or woman can vote in a particular party on primary day only if registered as a voter of that party before the event. It would be hard to show that the states which have party registration requirements are less devoted to the idea of popular sovereignty than is Wisconsin, and fairly easy to demonstrate that such a system would contribute to party responsibility.

Yet no leading politician has quite dared to make the move, because of adverse public reactions in the past. The average voter of Wisconsin has little sympathy for parties as such, and less understanding of the desirability of identifiable and responsible political instrumentalities. About a decade and a half ago the legislature thought to impose a mild control, by requiring candidates in a primary to show some proof of their actual party affiliation. The incumbent governor vetoed it with a blast that reverberated around the state in popular acclaim.

Dr. Beebe Saw World Under Water

From The Atlanta Journal

One of the most interesting pioneers of our time was Dr. William Beebe who died recently in Trinidad at the ripe old age of 84.

Dr. Beebe was a well-rounded man compared with the narrow, specialized product of today. He was an author, explorer and great naturalist, an authority on birds and marine life and many things in between.

His great claim to fame, however, rests on his underwater exploration in the days when that was nearly as novel and perilous as orbiting the earth is today. His record of descending more than 3,000 feet off Bermuda stood for nearly two decades.

Man, for all his pride and knowledge just is beginning to learn what is under the water, just as he is just beginning to learn what is out there in space.

Dr. Beebe handed us some of the keys to unlock this new world underwater, a world that some day may add considerably to the comfort and resources of those who live on dry land.

Until Dr. Beebe's day the underwater world was nearly as mysterious as another planet.

But he took the first steps that made it possible for others to follow.

Four to be Presented at Ball

Young Women Will Be Introduced July 14 at

North Shore Golf Club's 24th Assembly Ball

The traditional introduction of young women, daughters of North Shore Golf Club members, will be carried out for the 24th time when the Assembly Ball is held July 14. To be presented to the club membership this year are Miss Barbara Lynn Buchanan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Buchanan, 569 E. Wisconsin Ave., Neenah; Miss Jane Elizabeth Hyde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas G. Hyde, 301 Lopas St., Menasha; Miss Mary Cameron Kellogg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bredon H. Kellogg, 505 E. Wisconsin Ave., Neenah; and Miss Tina Anne Pertain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Andree Pertain, 245 Webster St., Neenah.

The 1962 Assembly Ball will bring the number of presentees since 1939 to 137. The girls, who have reached their 18th birthday anniversary, traditionally make their entrance on the arms of their fathers. Gowned in 'debutante' white, they are introduced to club members, who are invited to the event by North Shore directors.

Several of the customs started at the 1939 event have been continued. One of these is the 'rush' dance, which takes place after the young women have been introduced and had the first dance with their fathers.

Less Formal Affairs

The more formal bow of earlier years has gradually given way to simplicity and informality. The 1940, 1941 and 1942 Assembly Balls were the most elaborate affairs of the seasons. The simplicity established during the war years was continued in 1946, when, for the first time, no formal bow to society was made. The young presentees were designated guests of honor of the club that year.

In 1947 the 13 presentees were joined for the grand march by post debutantes of other years.

Although there have been changes since the first Assembly Ball 24 years ago, the purpose of the presentation and its aura of tradition have remained constant. The honored young women in their white ball gowns have reached a highlight in their lives.

Gracious Thanks Should Be Directed Only to Gift Giver

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A great deal has been said about the art of giving but I've read very little about the art of receiving. Will you please say something on this subject?

My mother-in-law makes a big production out of receiving gifts. She glories in birth days, anniversaries, Christmas, Mother's Day and so on. It's boring and embarrassing to hear her repeat the details of the gifts she receives. She generally appraises each item. For example: "That handbag must have cost at least $45!"

I'm shy about gifts and I'm sure I tend to go to the other extreme. There must be a happy medium. Will you please help me find it? — Saginaw Reader

Dear Saginaw Reader: That "happy medium" is a great deal closer to your approach than to your mother-in-law's. If the person who sent the gift is graciously thanked, this is adequate. Most people couldn't care less about someone else's gifts.

Even when questioned by an interested third party the details should be kept to a minimum and the comments should be conservative.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know this is trivial but I believe there's an important principle involved so I'd like your opinion.

I'm a college girl who dates fellows both in and out of school. I'm no prude, but my standards are high. If a fellow doesn't behave himself I tell him off and he either straightens up and flies right or I dump him.

The other evening I was out with an interesting fellow. In a complaining tone he whined: "Do you know I've been dating you for almost three months and I haven't tried anything yet?" I was annoyed and replied, "Well, what do you want — a medal?"

If looks could kill I'd have been a corpse that minute. He drove me straight home and I haven't heard from him since.

My mother liked this fellow a great deal and she feels that I was smartalecky and out of line. I say I haven't lost a thing. What do you say? — Diane

Dear Diane: I say congratulations and more power to you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been saving our dimes for eight years. This summer we are actually going to take that trip to Europe. We've been looking forward to it for so long it seems like a dream.

I'm terribly dumb about certain things and I need advice. Do we tip people who serve us aboard ship? Is it in good taste to speak to people in the cocktail lounge or on deck? What type of clothes should we wear during the day? (We know we're supposed to dress for dinner.)

I'm afraid we'll look like hayseeds, fresh off the farm. Please give us some pointers so people won't know it's the first time we ever saw a ship. Thank you — Bounding Main

Dear Bounding: Most of the people you'll be meeting have never seen a ship before either — so relax.

All the information you will need can be obtained from the travel agent or the person who sold you the tickets. The important thing is to be pleasant and conduct yourselves naturally — and remember wherever you go your country will be judged by your behavior. Don't let the strange and the unfamiliar turn you into Ugly Americans.

(P.S. Have a good time!)

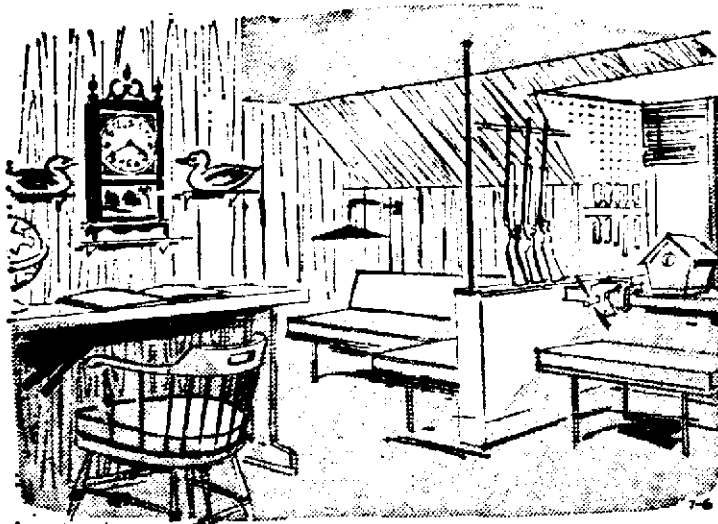

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

AUNT PLAYS CUPID

I asked my cousin to be a bridesmaid. I like her but she isn't even popular with girls. She is 29, an only child of a widowed mother and a little on the plump side. The wedding will be in six weeks. I have just discovered that the mother, unknown to any of us, has invited a man to be an usher so that her daughter can be his partner in the recessional and be with her at the breakfast and reception. The man accepted! Neither we nor anyone in my fiancée's family have ever met him. So now we have an extra usher. We are furious, but what are we going to do?

Louise Davis Answers:

Your aunt has a strange way of playing Cupid. Whether or not to chuck this man is up to your and your parents. You have the right and the prerogative. If you do, I suggest that one of your parents tell your aunt diplomatically, but firmly that no plans had been made for the extra usher and that it will be up to her to inform the man "that plans have changed". She would have been out of line even if she asked you your permission. The man erred too when he agreed to be in the bridal party. He should have known better than to accept the invitation from anyone other than the bride, her parents or fiancée. This will be your wedding and you are not obligated to appease your aunt or anyone else. Even if there may be hard feelings, your aunt should learn that she shouldn't interfere.

Inquest Into Cheesemaker's Death Delayed

State Crime Lab Fails to Produce Tissue Test Results

FOND DU LAC — While about a dozen people waited in a Safety Building corridor here Thursday, officials for the second consecutive time, called an 11th hour postponement of the inquest into the death of a Fond du Lac County cheesemaker.

Coroner Frank Decker said failure of the Wisconsin Crime Lab to produce results of tissue tests forced him to delay the inquiry until July 10. This was the same reason given by officials for the postponement of the session scheduled for June 28.

And, while a trail of cold clues grows increasingly colder, mystery continues to shroud the May 22 death of LeRoy Sommers, 42-year-old cheesemaker who was found dead in his car on a lonely country road southwest of here.

Ruled Suicide
The death was ruled suicide at the time because of evidence that Sommers had linked a length of hose from the exhaust pipe of his 1960 convertible and extended it inside the car. There also was evidence of fire, however, and Sommers' body was badly burned. Possible physical evidence at the scene was reported scraped away by a road construction grader which came through soon after the car was removed.

The inquest was called late in June at the insistence of Sommers' wife, who says she believes her husband could not have taken his own life. Testimony concerning pay-offs and possible links to crime syndicate activity have highlighted the inquest thus far.

Renk Challenges Kuehn to Debate Campaign Issues

Lively Campaign Healthy for Party, Green Bay Audience Told

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — "Two or three roosters scratching in the garden scratch up a lot more seed than just one."

This is how Wilbur Renk, Sun Prairie farmer and independent Republican candidate for governor, viewed today the value of a lively campaign between himself and GOP-endorsed Philip Kuehn for the Sept. 11 GOP primary election.

Renk was in Green Bay to announce a challenge he has made to Kuehn to debate the issues of the campaign Saturday at the Black Creek Centennial celebration, at Appleton, and two others in the Fox River Valley.

In making the challenge, Renk blasted the state convention system in which Kuehn received the official endorsement of the party. "I do not believe the people ever want any individual convention to tell them who they can vote for," Renk said. "The primary is a Wisconsin tradition that must be maintained."

No Split Vote
Renk said that by bringing the issues out in the open in a lively campaign, it would lead to a more healthy party rather than causing a split in GOP ranks.

"If we win the primary, we would expect Mr. Kuehn to back us, and if we lose, we certainly will back him," Renk pointed out. "I have not discussed the debates with Mr. Kuehn yet," Renk added, "but I hope his answer will be available."

Renk listed as the major issues which he would like to debate as taxation, education, the image of the Republican party and economy in government.

On the sales tax question, Renk said he favored a two per cent tax across the board tax with a $500 deduction for each member of the family. This is one per cent less than the straight sales tax proposed by Kuehn.

Junior-Type Colleges
On education, Renk stressed the need for improving educational facilities for the 60 per cent of high school graduates who never go on to do regular college work. In this field, he proposed a system of junior-type colleges where technical vocational skills and more limited liberal arts instruction would be made available at a very modest cost.

Man Reports Theft Of Fishing Equipment

William Brechlin, 303 E. McKinley St., Thursday reported the theft of two fishing rods and reels and $5 to $6 worth of other fishing equipment from his garage.

Bay area, with its rapidly expanding population, would be an ideal spot for a school of this type. He estimated that in the first two years of this program, 5,000 students would attend at a cost of about $700 a year.

"We've got to change the image of the GOP from that of the party of the rich people to that of the party of the average voter," Renk stressed.

Renk campaigned this morning at Green Bay factory gates, and scheduled a meeting in West De Pere later in the day. He will speak Saturday at the Black Creek Centennial celebration, at Appleton, and two others in the Fox River Valley.

He will return to Madison Monday to officially file his nomination papers with the secretary of state.

Erb Park Team 4-Year Veterans

With four years each, Fred E. Jungers and Connie Menning have more years of experience as playground leaders separately than many partners have accumulatively. The veterans direct activities at Erb Park playground for the recreation department.

A hobbyist of all types of sports, Jungers, 1628 Highland Ave., Appleton, was on the varsity tennis team at Oshkosh State College for four years. He also is a member of Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity, education, the image of the Republican party and economy in government.

Miss Menning, 706 E. Wisconsin Ave., Appleton, graduated from across the board tax with a $500 deduction for each member of the family. This is one per cent less than the straight sales tax proposed by Kuehn.

On education, Renk stressed the need for improving educational facilities for the 60 per cent of high school graduates who never go on to do regular college work.

In this field, he proposed a system of junior-type colleges where technical vocational skills and more limited liberal arts instruction would be made available at a very modest cost.

Three Wisconsin educational institutions were given grants by the National Science Foundation today, to help meet their needs in science.

They were: Lawrence College, $5,955; Marquette University, $11,220; and the University of Wisconsin, $50,000.

Nationally, the National Science Foundation allotted $3,730,634 to 302 colleges and universities as "a means of strengthening their ability to create new scientific knowledge and to educate scientists and engineers essential to the national well-being."

Institutional grants are intended by the Foundation to provide general and flexible support to develop and maintain sound, well-balanced programs of research, education, or related activities in the sciences. The grants are undesignated, allowing each institution to assign them in the area of greatest need.

Lawrence received a $10,720 grant for scientific equipment in the biology department in May from the National Science Foundation; the new gift falls in another category.

K-C Asks Damages At Niagara Falls

Paper Firm Suing for $2 Million

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — A second damage suit, this one for more than $2 million, has been filed against the state power authority for damages allegedly caused by construction of the giant Niagara power project here.

Kimberly-Clark Corp., of Neenah, Wis., a national manufacturer of paper products, filed a $2,372,320 suit in state Supreme Court Thursday, charging that walls and foundations were cracked and machines knocked out of alignment in the company's plant.

Filed Suit

The City of Niagara Falls filed a similar suit last week, asking $300,000 for damages to sewer lines in the city's Hyde Park section.

The Kimberly-Clark suit, like the one filed by the city, named as co-defendants Uhl, Hall, and Rich of Boston, Mass., consulting engineers on the $720 million project, and Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corp., of New York, the general contractor.

Kimberly-Clark claimed the damage was a result of construction of the five-mile-long twin conduits that carry Niagara River water from above Niagara Falls to the generating plants downstream from the falls. The covered conduits run beneath the city.

Besides breaks and cracks in the plant's foundations and walls, the suit claimed "movements of rock and earth mass beneath buildings" of the plant continue to occur.

In its suit, Niagara Falls claimed the conduit work ruptured sewers that normally carry large amounts of industrial waste.

Two of them showed the detective a simulator shell and a rocket flare they said they had found under the railroad loading dock in the morning in County Court Branch, 300 block of N. Superior Street.

Kafura described the explosives as dangerous and of the variety used in "war games."

The detective spoke with the youths' parents.

Holds Police at Bay

Patient Threatens Employees at Hospital

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — A 26-year-old man who held off police, doctors and hospital employees with a loaded revolver for almost three hours this morning was disarmed on the tenth floor of St. Vincent Hospital shortly before noon today.

Hospital authorities identified the man as Gerald Heckman of 743 Elm St. Heckman was taken to the second floor psychiatric ward at the hospital after being disarmed.

He had held off authorities since nine this morning when he pulled the .38 cal. automatic on Dr. Ralph Lenz, a De Pere physician who had gone into the room to examine him.

Police Had Tear Gas

Police, equipped with tear gas, were called and stood by until Heckman collapsed in the room about 11:45 a.m. They then went into the room, disarmed him, and restrained him with a pair of handcuffs.

According to hospital officials, Heckman was admitted at 2 a.m. today and assigned a room on the tenth floor. He was admitted on the recommendation of a physician for treatment of a sore throat.

Sister Rose Marie, hospital director, said Heckman refused to go to bed and became uncooperative. He sat up in a chair the rest of the night and was sitting in the chair when Dr. Lenz walked into the room.

Threatens Suicide

As the physician walked in, Heckman suddenly pulled out the gun and told the doctor to get out. Heckman then sat in a chair near the window and said he was going to shoot himself at 11 o'clock.

Heckman then instructed the floor nurses to remove another patient who had been in the room. The patient, who was not identified, was taken out of the room unharmed. A television set he had rented also was removed on Heckman's instruction.

Heckman remained sitting in the chair throughout the morning threatening to shoot anyone who walked into the room. About 11 a.m. he got up from the chair and closed the door to the room.

Decide to Wait

Police at this time debated whether to use tear gas, then decided to wait for a short time. About 11:45, Heckman suddenly opened the door and collapsed.

Officers rushed into the room and disarmed him. Another doctor who had been on the floor then went in and examined him and recommended he be restrained and taken under guard to the psychiatric ward.

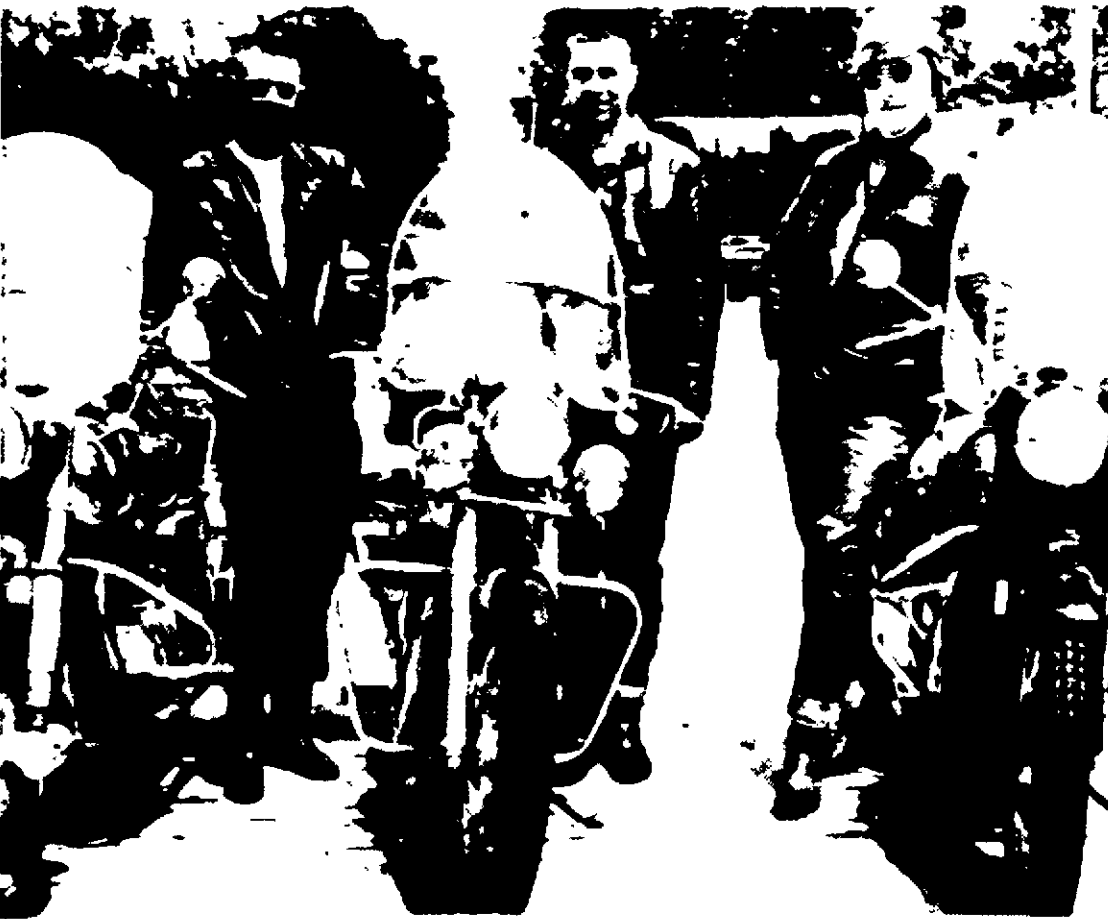

Heckman was handcuffed and taken downstairs in a wheelchair with two detectives acting as guard. He offered no resistance.

Dist. Atty. Robert Warren arrived and conferred with police. Authorities indicated they would announce further action later in the day.

Kenview Plat Approved by Commission

Southwood Plan Rejected, Will Study Northwood Layout

Three proposed plats were stud- ied by the Appleton planning com- mission this morning, which ap- proved one, rejected another and held a third for a utility service study by the engineering depart- ment.

The Kenview Heights plat was approved. It is a half block area bounded by Mason, Parkway and Brewster streets. Although it has been in the city for a number of years the land never was platted. When it is developed Grant, Bell and Hawes streets will be con- tinued west to Mason.

The Southwood plat in the Town of Menasha was rejected, be- cause of a complicated intersection re- sembling the Wisconsin Avenue- Meade Street intersection.

Although the 48-foot subdivision is outside the city, the planning commission has control because of the three-mile jurisdictional authority granted by state law.

Jog In Street
Commissioners did not approve of the Adams and Foster Streets intersection because there would be about a 60 foot jog. Adams north of Foster does not line up with Adams south of Foster.

Joseph Doerfler, subdivision owner and developer, told the commission he can't change the location of Adams Street because property owners to the east and west are not ready to subdivide. He said he tried to have them plat their land so a better street ar- rangement could be worked out.

The commission said that sub- divisions must be developed in relationship to future development of the surrounding land, otherwise, the whole concept and goal of planning is destroyed.

Doerfler suggested the city re- serve enough land on the official street map to allow for a sweep- ing curve in Adams south of Fos- ter, thus eliminating the jog. The commission did not give any in- dication of favoring that idea.

Utility Study
Approval of the Northwood Park Subdivision plat was delayed until the engineering department makes a utility service study.

The 340-lot subdivision is north of Northland Avenue and east of Meade Street. It was annexed several months ago, and the own- ers were told that the city would not be able to provide services immediately, commissioners re- called.

The city engineers want to sur- vey the elevation of the land at the east end of the green belt to make sure it is high enough for the proposed one-way streets that will serve the lots facing the green belt.

Tipsy Drivers Plead Guilty

Appleton Man Fined $100, Sentencing of Woman Postponed

An Appleton man was fined $100 and an Allenville woman had her sentencing postponed, after they were found guilty of drunken driving. Both had their driver's licenses revoked for one year.

Jack G. Giebisch, 21, 524 E. South River St., was arraigned before Anton Jansen, municipal justice of the peace, Thursday. Giebisch was arrested by vil- lage police when they said they saw him driving erratically on U. S. 41 Wednesday. He tested .26 on the drunkometer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of in- toxication.

Mrs. Eldred E. Ostertag, 37, pleaded guilty Thursday afternoon of drunken driving and of driving without a driver's license.

Winnebago County Court Judge James V. Sitter postponed sen- tencing until Nov. 2, 1962, and released her without bond. She was arrested by county po- lice June 8 on State 110 near Winchester after her car nearly hit a squad car.

City May Buy Old Railroad Depot

Railroad Must Guarantee Right To Crossing at Tri-Intersection

Appleton's planning commission has given conditional approval to the purchase of the old Chicago and North Western Railroad de- pot between Appleton and Onei- da streets for the possible exten- sion of North Street west to Packard Street.

The condition is that the rail- road guarantee the city the right to have a crossing where the tracks intersect with North, Pack- ard and Bates streets. The three streets meet at one point.

It was pointed out that if the city is not allowed to cross the tracks at that intersection it will not be possible to extend North Street. Then purchase of the property would be senseless, com- missioners said, because the sole reason for buying it is to extend North Street.

Commissioners were informed that the railroad is strongly ob- jecting to any new crossings, and in fact has a program whereby it is seeking to abandon some ex- isting crossings to try to cut op- erating and maintenance costs.

The railroad formally has not ap- proached Appleton with requests to close any crossings.

Need Carrier
The commission was told this morning that with Appleton's cen- tral business district showing signs of spreading north and south of College Avenue it is im- portant to plan for extension of North Street.

Another east-west traffic car- rier north of the avenue is going to be needed, it was pointed out, in addition to the proposed exten- sion of Franklin Street.

The board of public works has approved buying the old depot for $43,500.

Included in the sale is the one block of North Street, between Oneida and Appleton streets. The city never obtained title to the street right-of-way, but the street has been used as a public thor- oughfare for more than 25 years. The city has maintained the street and plowed the snow.

May Own Street
Ald. George Buckley contends the city owns the street because of its public use for many years, and that the city will be paying for something it already owns.

He had the purchase referred back to the board at the June 6 council meeting. On June 19 the board affirmed its decision to buy in Langlade County and also was charged with a similar offense in Marathon County.

The sheriff said Flaws hid in the day room early Thursday evening and dashed past the jail- er when the latter came in to lock the cells for the night. Later Thursday night a car was reported stolen in Antigo. It was found abandoned this morning at Cryst- al Falls, near Iron Mountain, Mich. Sheriff Aird said he is con- vinced that Flaws took the car.

The other property is a lot own- ed by A. L. Koch on the Fox Riv- er for $18,000. It will be an addi- tion to Lutz Park for expanded boat docking facilities.

Oshkosh Park Sale For Clinic Collapses
OSHKOSH — Mary Jewel Sawyer Park was withdrawn from the "For Sale" block by the Osh- kosh Common Council Thursday after a group of doctors with- drew their offer of $17,000 for the 1.9 acre park on Oshkosh Av- enue and Punhoqua Street.

The doctors had proposed to build a new clinic on the west- side site and offered the $17,000 as a compromise between their appraised value of the land and the $22,000 figure placed on the park by the city. The doctors de- cided the city figure was too high.

The park, which has frontage on Sawyer Creek, has never been developed.

For Exciting Games, Races

BY CAPPY DICK

If you save the paper sacks that come from the grocer's you will have the makings of some games and races that are fun.

For example, a kicking race is exciting. Each racer must have a very stout paper sack which he must stuff with dry grass or crushed wrap paper and tie at the top with string. Mark a starting line on the ground where each racer must stand with the stuffed sack at his feet. At the signal to start the race, each player kicks his sack toward the goal. The first to send his sack across the finish line is the winner.

The rules for a kicking race are: 1. Each player must have a sack made of paper sack. 2. The sack must be stuffed with dry grass or crushed wrap paper. 3. The sack must be tied at the top with string. 4. The sack must be kicked across the finish line. 5. The first to kick the sack across the finish line is the winner.

Ask League to Put Cecil Butler on Disabled List

CHICAGO (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves have decided to add rookie relief specialist Hank Fischer to their long list of starting pitchers.

The plans for Fischer were announced Thursday as the Braves asked the National League to place Cecil Butler, also a reliever, on the disabled list for 30 days. Right-hander Butler has a bone spur on his right elbow.

The Braves sent Butler from St. Louis to Milwaukee on Sunday, and he was examined on Monday by Dr. Bruce Brewer. The examination located the spur and led to the request Butler be placed on the disabled list.

Fischer won his chance at a starting assignment with an impressive relief appearance in St. Louis Tuesday night. When Tony Cloninger's arm stiffened after only one inning, Fischer was hailed out of the bullpen and in his longest stint of the season, hurled five and two-thirds innings of hitless ball. Before the inning was over the Cards had knocked Fischer out of the box and tied the score at 5-5 on Fred Whitfield's pinch homer.

The game was later delayed by rain, then bumped into the curfew and had to be completed Wednesday night. The Braves won the game 7-5 on Eddie Matthews' 15th homer. To further complicate the game's pitching story, the victory went to Jack Curtis, who tossed two balls to the first batter and then was replaced by Lew Burdette, who got the Cards out in order.

Hurled Troubled

Butler's problem is the most serious, but not the only one bothering Braves' hurlers. There's Cloninger's stiff arm to contend with, and Carl Willey has a sore back and Bob Hendley also has an ailing elbow.

However, they all remain on the starter list, along with Burdette, Warren Spahn and Bob Shaw. The addition of Fischer will give the Braves seven starters.

The Braves, still trying to find the combination that will hoist them out of sixth place and into the first division, were idle Thursday.

They were scheduled to open a three-game series with the Chicago Cubs today. Hendley, 5-6, or Willey, 1-3, slated to face Don Cardwell, 4-9.

Quincy Edges Dubuque in 12 Innings

Marlon Brando Plans To Answer His Critics

Actor Will Defend Himself Against Charges of 'Gooing Off' in 'Bounty'

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD —(AP)—Marlon Brando is planning a magazine article to answer the writings that he goofed off on "Mutiny on the Bounty." It will mark the first time he has replied to criticism. He doesn't care what is written about his personal life, but he is concerned about the way he balances his professional life with the gentleness in his behavior on the set.
Brando's adherents point out that his behavior on "The Ugly American" has been spotless. Except for two or three days when he was absent with a virus, he has been up for filming every day, even after the weekend when he chopped his foot with an ax. No more Marilyn Monroe imitations for Edie Adams—and because of MM's current troubles, Edie has worried that she will become too identified with the man. The really enjoyable watching. "When I did my last television special, I did the Marilyn impression against my better judgment. It would be the end of it. Then the Academy asked if I Lydon, who is destined for a short clip from the career, during which she may have show on the Emmy telecast. Ima-

New King of Burundi

Leading Royal Twister Will Visit White House

USUMBURA, Burundi (AP) — bodyguards. Once he climbed out of his bedroom window, hailed a cab and danced in a night club in the world is coming to the United States this summer to meet President Kennedy and see the White House.
Mwambutsa, the mwami, or king of the new nation of Burundi, told foreign newsmen he will leave his pocket-size country next door to the Congo at the end of the month and tour the United States, Britain, Belgium, Switzerland, the Netherlands and France.
Burundi is half of the former trust territory of Ruanda-Urundi. Belgium's troops are due to quit the country by the end of July. Their departure could open the political foes, but the ebullient, 56-year-old monarch said he didn't think there would be any trouble.
Son is Heir
Mwambutsa has held his throne for 43 years, since he was 13. Since the assassination of Crown Prince Louis Rwagasore last year, his heir has been 17-year-old Prince Charles, now studying in Switzerland.
The mwami is a regular visitor to night clubs and sometimes sits in on the drums. Hating formality, on his last visit to Belgium he was constantly trying to elude his

Once More Bob Hope Is Visited

BY TV SCOUT

8:30-9:30 (Channel 4-5)—The World of Bob Hope, repeated tonight, was originally shown early on a Sunday evening in October, so perhaps you missed this fascinating pictorial biography. It shows why Hope is one of the most respected entertainers in show business.
8:30-9:30 (Channel 2)—Rawhide's repeat dredges up an old white Indian chief (Zachary Scott) who is going home to die. He black-mails his way into the cattle drive to get passage.
7:30-8:30 (Channel 2)—Route 66's repeat leads to Cleveland, with Ralph Meeker and Henry Jones joining the regulars. The plot is simple and straightforward but unfortunately, its big surprise is easy to figure out. Meeker is a wealthy industrialist whose son is attacked and then kidnapped—or so it seems.
7:30-8:30 (Channel 4-5)—A potential suicide is the crux of the case on the Robert Taylor's Detectives repeat tonight. Inger Stevens has the self-destructive tendency. The title of this play, "Song of the Guilty Heart," was changed to conform to the name Kenyon, Jim and Denny Backus, of the song which Jimmie Haskell, Joan Fairfax and Larry Storch.

Five Fined for Conservation Law Violations

WAUPACA—Five people were fined by Municipal Justice George Whaler for violations of the conservation laws.
Al Carstensen, 61, Fremont, was fined $5 for permitting a boat to be operated without sufficient life preservers.
Donald Jezierski, Melrose, Ill.,

Alfred Perry and Barry de Vozon wrote for Miss Stevens to sing.

8-9 (Channel 11)—John Dehner walks away with 77 Sunset Strip's repeat tonight, in a joyous characterization of an old-time star who resorts to a series of acrobatic robberies to regain his status in life. Efram Zumbalst Jr. is so hot on the thief's trail that he hires him as his butler—but still can't prove a thing.

8-9:30 (Channel 2)—There is a bit of ESP hocus-pocus on the Twilight Zone's repeat tonight. A condemned killer faces the gallows with the convicted man's father pleading for mercy. Thomas Gomez plays an unsavory peddler who sold the town the rope for hanging.

10:20-12 (Channel 4-5)—Tonight's guests are Merv Griffin, Adele Kenyon, Jim and Denny Backus, of the song which Jimmie Haskell, Joan Fairfax and Larry Storch.

Special Events

Green Ram Theatre, Baraboo — (opens tonight) Two for the Seagaw by William Gibson, 8 15.

Betsy Brill Had a Chance to Show off her 4-H calf to her visitor from Israel. Dairying is not a major agricultural arm in Miss Amir's homeland because of the limited acreage. (Post-Crescent Photo)

U. S. Called 'Big, Busy' By Israeli Farm Student

Girl Visiting Calumet County Sponsored by 4-H Foundation

BY DON KAMPFER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW HOLSTEIN — "It's so big and so busy," said Ofra Amir, 22-year-old International Farm Youth Exchange girl from Israel, as she described her impressions of the United States.

Miss Amir concluded a two-week visit to Calumet County today. She stayed with the Clarence Brill family at route 1, New Holstein.

The tall, slim Israeli girl is intensely interested in the horticulture end of agriculture, and for good reasons. She works at an agriculture experimental station in her home village of Beit Shaerim.

In huge green houses there, she and her colleagues work to develop and improve vegetables for productivity and hardiness. In the glass-enclosed buildings, vegetables are also grown for home consumption and for export to Europe, especially during February and March when they command top prices.

Miss Amir is proud of the strides made in agriculture by her people. She said that when the first great Jewish migrations to Israel began this century, the immigrants faced great odds. Traditionally shopkeepers and merchants from throughout Europe — hers were from Poland — they found themselves lacking knowledge of agriculture or productive soil. Both have been overcome.

Entire agricultural villages sprang up on what had been barren country. Her own she described as being comprised of about 70 families. Each works 20 acres of land in an intensified program. All have tractors and small implements.

Have Stores

The villages are comparatively new, many springing up in the past 25 years. The farmers' homes grouped in planned developments comprise the communities, which are encircled by the 20-acre plots.

Each village has a food store and a dairy store. Because of the

Clinics Planned At Fairgrounds

Calves, Horses to Be Topics at Calumet County

CHILTON — The Calumet County fairgrounds here will on successive days be the site of calf and horse handling clinics, Charles Nikolai, county club agent, has announced. On Sunday, horse and pony owners can attend a horse training clinic beginning at 1 p.m.

The program is aimed at horsemen who have had little experience on riding and training horses for pleasure and show purposes. Nikolai urged 4-H campers to attend so that they will be better able to use the time at camp devoted to horses.

On the following day, July 9, dairy project members will receive training in grooming and showing dairy animals.

Besides the dairy judging practices, this is the only dairy project training given to the county-wide group. Dairy project leaders conduct training sessions for their respective club members during the year.

After the calf rally, animals to represent the county in the State Fair herd will be selected. Animals must be registered purebreds to be eligible for State Fair competition.

For 4-H projects and county fair exhibits, there are no pedigree requirements.

Waupaca Area 4-Her's Go on Television

WAUPACA — Two of the top county 4-H demonstrators will be on television during the Farm, Home and Garden Show of Channel 5 from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Judy Paulson, a member of the Casey Lake club, near Waupaca, will present the demonstration "Packing With A-Plus." It depicts ways of packing for freezing. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Paulson.

Kay Frederick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Frederick, a member of the North Star club, near Clintonville, will demonstrate "First Aid Travel Kits." The girls will appear with Miss Donna Ruhland, county home agent.

Grange Members Take Degrees

GREENVILLE — Fifteen candidates took the third and fourth degree at the South Greenville Grange Saturday evening with a harvest supper following.

Joining were the Rev. John McCortney from the South Byron Grange, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Postal, former members of Black Creek Community Grange and Wisconsin State Grange, Keith and Hal Postal, Dale Finger, Norbert Wensel, Leo Shelly, Sister M. Thomas Moore, Mrs. T. L. Knapstein, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Hussey, Mr. and Mrs. Nyle Much and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Breitenbach.

First and second degree members are Diana Arndt and Priscilla Schnetzer.

Guests attending were State Master Elmer Marquardt and Mrs. Marquardt and Miss Sherry Hoover, winner of the Indiana State Grange Youth Traveling Fellowship. Miss Hoover will attend the state youth grange camp now in session at Chute Lake, Oconto County.

Barbecue Planned for Calumet 4-H Leaders

CHILTON — The annual chicken barbecue for county 4-H leaders is July 10 at Calumet County Park.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m., the event will be arranged this year by the Working Woodchucks and Darby Ever Alert Clubs. Girls from the latter will present a style show after the barbecue.

Sally Wendler, daughter of Mrs. Claricy Wendler, has been named sweetheart of the Wittenberg FFA chapter. She was selected by vote of chapter members. (Adams Photo)

People to People Tour

Waupaca Farmer on European Trip Impressed by Soviet Agriculture

BY DICK McDANIEL
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

WAUPACA — George Borchardt, a third generation farmer, who returned Sunday after spending three weeks touring European and Russian farms, said he was impressed by the agricultural strides made in Russia.

Borchardt was with a group of 22 Wisconsin residents who went on a Goodwill People To People tour. Most of the members of the tour were farmers, although there were a couple of co-operative officers and teachers among the group.

The Waupaca farmer was impressed by the farming operations in the Ukraine in Russia. He saw only the farms that the host Russians wanted them to see.

Saw Harvest Operations

He said it was harvest time at the Black Creek Centennial and the visitors saw 500-acre and bigger fields being combined of 22 at Hatten Park in New London. The wheat crop they visited only don. The next meeting will be state farms and learned that the July 23 at the Black Creek combined agricultural centers were munity hall.

equipped with the most modern equipment.

They saw 10-foot combines, six-row corn planters, six-row cultivators, milk parlors, artificial breeding and many of the common agricultural practices known and used in the United States.

Spoke in German

Some of the Wisconsin people, Borchardt said, were skeptical when they saw the machinery display in Moscow. They thought the display was only to impress the visitors and they were surprised when they actually saw the equipment being used in the fields.

Borchardt's knowledge of German came in handy. He learned by talking to some of the people that the collective farms, which were not on the tour, apparently are more successful than the state farms.

The collective farms consist of large estates of the former landowners under the Czars. The land was given to the tenants with the understanding that as long as they produced their quota, the land would remain in their jurisdiction. He said the collective farm owners take pride in their land and work harder to out-produce the state farms.

Regular Showplaces

The state farms were regular showplaces with women, dressed in white, doing the milking and other dairy chores. Women also work in the fields with the men. Although they did not stop at a

How to get extra milk every day for only 1 1/2¢ per cow

Feed Land O'Lakes Milk Maker "36" daily. It costs only about 1 1/2¢ more per cow than your present daily feed costs, because you replace grain with Milk Maker "36". And at today's prices, the cost of a pound of Milk Maker "36" is only about 1 1/2¢ more than a pound of grain.

You'll get extra milk every day because Milk Maker "36" contains the protein and other nutrients that are missing from normal rations of grains and roughage. Not only is this feed protein-rich itself, but it also contains sulphur to help your cow make even more protein from urea. The extra milk you'll get pays you back several times over. You'll make more money.

Better stop in to see us tomorrow. We'll help you get started on the Milk Maker "36" program so you can get extra milk every day for only 1 1/2¢ more per cow.

Israel Girl Visits Area

year around growing season, there is very little food packaging.

Almost all of the locally consumed foods are brought fresh from field to store or home. "I like my vegetables from the field, not from a package," Miss Amir remarked, but added that the packaged food was very tasty, though a bit sweet.

Every member of the family works on an Israel farm, she said. To boost the productivity of the limited acreage, even the lawns are not wasted. For shade the lawns have citrus trees.

Israeli winters are brief, cool and wet while summers are long and hot. Irrigation is used everywhere in agriculture. Dairying is limited.

Miss Ami was one of five IFYE to come to the U.S. this year and was the only girl. She arrived in New York in late May and visited one other Wisconsin farm before coming to the Brill home. She will visit two more in Wisconsin before going to Missouri.

Set Tours

Tours of Washington D.C. and New York City are slated before she returns to her homeland after a six-month stay in the U.S. She hopes to see snow before leaving in November. To this Mrs. Brill added, "You should have been here last winter."

The Brills have been attempting to squeeze as many educational tours into the temporary "daughter's" visit as possible.

A great deal of general knowledge is achieved by the IFYE tour, Miss Amir said, but the stays in any one area are too brief to learn things in detail. They are sponsored by the 4-H Foundation.

KAYTEE FEEDING RECOMMENDATIONS

Dr. C. F. Huffman of Michigan State says: "Hollow belly is still the No. 1 disease of potentially high producing dairy cows." Your good cows need a balanced grain ration along with pasture. How you feed your cows this summer will determine their production next fall and winter. Kaytee recommends the following rates of balanced grain ration with good pasture and with fair pasture.

QUALITY of PASTURE

| Good       | Fair    |
|------------|---------|
| Daily Milk |         |
| 21 lbs.    | 12 lbs. |

GRAIN RATION PER DAY

| Milk Test | 3.5%    | 4%       |
|-----------|---------|----------|

AMBROSE BIRSCHBACH, herdsman in the Reuben Keuler herd says "Last summer for the first time we fed Kaytee 32% Dairy and our grain throughout the summer. This past winter we had our best production and herd average of all time. Believe me we are again feeding this summer even with excellent pasture."

More Manual Work

They also learned that the laborer is the top man in Russia, and has special privileges. He earns between $40 and $100 per month and is housed in apartment buildings with heat, light, telephone and water furnished for about $7 per month.

Farm operations in the satellite countries were not impressive as War II. Borchardt said Europe most of the work was done by hand, especially in Poland.

In Hungary they learned that the government pays up to 90 per cent of the cost of building and keeping churches in repair.

The visit to England also was impressive as the English take pride in raising pellet fed meat type hogs. Borchardt said there isn't enough difference in the price of meat type hogs in this country to warrant exploitation of that field.

English kidded Americans. The English kidded us about our corn fed hogs. Borchardt said. They also visited English dairy farms.

They visited farms in France, but by comparison they liked the ment buildings with heat, light, telephone and water furnished for about $7 per month.

Other impressive sights were the reconstruction of the cities that were destroyed during World War II.

Borchardt said Europe most of the work was done by hand, especially in Poland.

In Hungary they learned that the government pays up to 90 per cent of the cost of building and keeping churches in repair.

The visit to England also was impressive as the English take pride in raising pellet fed meat type hogs. Borchardt said there isn't enough difference in the price of meat type hogs in this country to warrant exploitation of that field.

Those people lack aggressive ness—we have more 'guts' here," he added.

Government Purchases Egg Surplus Stocks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department has bought 11,529,000 pounds of dried whole eggs at a cost of $11,864,000 since March 2 as a means of helping remove excess egg supplies from the market.

The dried eggs are used for school lunch and institutional programs.

VENTILATION INCREASES POULTRY PROFITS

Hens can't produce eggs profitably in a hot, damp, smelly poultry house. In fact, continued temperatures of over 80 degrees, ammonia gases and wet litter diseases can cause losses to your flock.

There are other problems, too. Like dirty unmarketable eggs and dry-rot from damp walls.

Reddy Kilowatt says, "Why not take the summer sag out of poultry profits now—install an electric forced-air ventilation system." It's easily installed.

YEAR-ROUND VENTILATION IN THE BARN
